To whom it may concern

I would like to attest that we have been working with Flying Teachers for 8 years now with full satisfaction. They have developed a Content Management System (CMS) adapted to our needs in 2011 so that we could outsource the administrative part of our internal language training.

This CMS has helped us to gain time and efficiency. The participants can register to a course via a link and they may view all relevant and important information they need to know regarding the organisation of the training, the school receives all the information needed for the administration, and finally the HR may find all the necessary up-dated information about the participants.

I am entirely satisfied about the system which has taken a great deal of workload off my hands.
